

The Medicine Group Welcomes Stephanie Gilstein

New Hope, PA – June, 2016.

The Medicine Group (TMG), an independently-owned medical communications agency with offices in New Hope, PA announced this week the addition of Stephanie Gilstein as a Publication Coordinator. Stephanie joins TMG's client services department and will bring her management, operational, and healthcare experience to the agency's CNS and oncology clients.

Stephanie is a business student at Strayer University and brings four years of scheduling, coordination, and organizational experience to TMG. Before joining The Medicine Group, Stephanie worked as a scheduling coordinator in home healthcare delivery, focusing on daily operations, referral management, and personnel placement. She also brings years of customer service and client relationship management to TMG's client services team and will work closely with clients and internal team members to ensure timely and accurate delivery of TMG programs.

Stephanie will work on program and publication management, including timeline adherence, author coordination, and budget reconciliation.

"We're looking forward to having Stephanie join us at TMG," said Managing Director Philip Sjostedt. "Her professionalism, enthusiasm, and program management experience will be great additions to our client services team."

About The Medicine Group

The Medicine Group (TMG) is an independently-owned healthcare communications agency specializing in the development and implementation of global, strategic medical commercialization plans. With decades of experience in publication planning and medical communications, the teams at TMG are focused on the needs of our healthcare clients and focus on excellence in scientific acumen, tactical delivery, and dedicated service.